Statement of Impartiality for Personal Certification Services

Eurolink Safety and its employees understand the importance of integrity, impartiality and potential conflicts of interests in carrying out its management systems certification processes.

Eurolink Safety has assigned an impartiality committee to ensure the objectivity of its certification processes with regard to the integrity and impartiality.

Eurolink Safety has identified and risk assessed all relationships which may result in a conflict of interest or pose a threat to impartiality.

Management conducts annual risk assessment on impartiality and conflict of interest, and this shall continually review by the certification scheme committee, which is an independent committee composed of members representing the key Interested parties. Conflict of Interest and objectivity is addressed in contractually binding agreements, so that all management system certification activities are conducted in an impartial manner.

Candidate need not required to attend rigger/ signalman training conducted by Eurolink safety as a pre-requisite to obtain admission for the rigger/ signalman certification scheme.

Eurolink Safety aims to inspire confidence in its management certification to its clients by being impartial, providing competent employees, being responsive to complaints, providing access to the relevant information gathered, being open, fairness, transparency of processes, and maintaining confidentiality.
